Domaine A Cabernet Sauvignon 2011 (Pre-Release)

Be the first to taste this hugely-anticipated new vintage of a truly legendary wine. As you'd expect from Domaine A, this is a full-bodied showcase of the full range of cabernet character synonymous with the vineyard—earthy, complex, with plenty of roasted beetroot and dark fruits beneath spiced top notes of vanilla, a faint char, and star anise. The finish is long, and builds incredibly.

Muse Chardonnay 2017

A delightful tippie. On the nose you'll see hints of oak (but nothing overbearing) and some vanilla cream, before a palate of green papaya and a flinty hit of lemon zest, all lightness and elegance without being tangy. Pair with something subtle.

Cloth Label White 2015

Luminous, luxurious and layered, the 2015 Cloth White is a promise of spring and spice. Lemon-gold in the glass, the bouquet suggests chai, cinnamon, honeysuckle nectar and peaches, with deeper notes of apricot beyond. The palate balances medium acidity and tannins with an astonishing spread of texture across the tongue, bringing grapefruit pith, cashews and lime skin character before a refreshing finish. Nuanced and exhilarating, it will reward just-below-room-temperature drinking or a good stint in the cellar.

Muse Cabernet Merlot 2009

(Back vintage from Walshie's private cellar)

A fine example of a cool-climate cabernet blend. Soft, velvety merlot; earthy and powerful cabernet sauvignon; and rounded, floral cabernet franc combine to create a full-bodied wine that is drunk brilliantly on release, but has improved even further over its time in the cellar. Rich and complex, it will benefit from decanting—if drinking now—or an even longer stint on the rack.

Muse Syrah 2016 (New Release)

From the deep, red-purple colour onward, this is an alluring, elegant beast. The bouquet is classic—peppery, sweet berries, ample spice—and the palate is luxurious, with plenty of soft tannin and a long, rewarding carry. A subtle meatiness and nuanced, blackcurrant-on-the-vine character round out this astoundingly well-crafted wine.

Mona 'Nothing Lasts Forever' Notebook

This notebook is perfect for those who have briefly forgotten their deep and unrelenting existential dread. Perfect for scribbling tasting notes or wine-induced epiphanies.

'A very smart wine, already drinking well ... Tasmanian shiraz is seldom this full-throated.'
